NEWS ROUND-UP

Since our last edition, the event season has been in full swing, with the Derby, Biggin Hill, the Ramsbury Ball, Le Mans, the Glastonbury Festival, Royal Ascot, the Glade Festival, and regattas at Marlow and Henley keeping us very busy. These events have all generated excellent customer feedback, a fitting testament to the quality of the service that we provided. A big thank you is due to everyone concerned.

We are currently providing the catering for the police at this year's Greenpeace Camp, by far the largest police operation that we have ever worked on, and at the end of the month we will once more be at the Reading Festival, where for the first time we will be feeding the stage crew as well as the police.

On the location front, we are still working on 'Little Dorrit' which runs till mid September and have just started on the new series of 'Minder' which we are doing on behalf of HCS. With the new series of 'Waking the Dead' starting on 18th August and two new children's series booked in for September, things are looking more positive than they have for some time.

LE MANS

Working in conjunction with the event management company Complete Events, we provided catering for guests of the prestigious Stratstone Motor Dealership at this year's Le Mans 24-hour sports car race. Our intrepid crew had to drive to France, taking almost everything with them. Despite the fact that they had to sleep in tents and to work up to nineteen hours a day, the food and the service they provided was nothing short of outstanding. Many of Stratstone's guests had also been guests of two of the event's major sponsors, Aston Martin and Audi. There was no doubt in anyone's mind; the catering provided by Wood Hall was the best of the lot! A big well done to Simon, Dominic and all the crew for their fantastic efforts, which will undoubtedly lead to more offers of prestige hospitality catering.

GLASTONBURY FESTIVAL

After several year's waiting for their existing contract to run its course. We were finally given the opportunity to provide catering to Avon &

Somerset Police at this year's Glastonbury Festival, the largest event of its type in the UK. Over the course of six days we provided the police and other emergency service personnel with 314 breakfasts, 825 lunches, 715 dinners and more than 3700 packed meals. Yet again, the feedback was extremely positive, the quality and variety of the food we provided being rated as noticeably better than what they had been used to. It is very gratifying to see our long association with TVP and all the hard work that has been put in there enabling us to win important contracts with other forces.
